There was debate about the interpretation of the legislation and whether any committee members had a conflict of interest. It was raised by the Chairman that as a tender party, Peter Zunker had a conflict of interest.

Peter Zunker argued that John Gilliland should also leave due to Cathedral Village not being a party to the contract. The Chairperson ruled that as a committee member, he was a party to the contract.

Peter Zunker voluntarily left the meeting while disagreeing that he had a conflict of interest.

This debate and the ruling by the Chair had taken place prior to John Gilliland's arrival at the meeting.
